Dear Diary R. Sulaiman,

On behalf of the Editorial Board of Engineering and Technology Publishing (ETPub), I'd like to present our compliments to you.

ETPub is an independent publisher specializing in the publication of high-impact journals, proceedings and books, in printed, CD and online versions, across all areas of science and technology. We are aiming to be a leading scientific publisher and publish an expanding academic research content program.

ETPub's goal and chief purpose is to transmit information to the global community to further, through publications, the objective of advancing knowledge, education, learning and research. In order to realize the aim, we not only collect and process valuable scientific technological information, but develop and establish the means of its transmission, communication and preservation. We look forward to expanding the offerings of ETPub as the need for credible sources of information grows in our increasingly scientific and technological world.

We are convinced that your expertise, professional experience, educational back ground is essential to engage in such reflection, and we are delighted that you are a reviewer for IJEEE now. We assume that you will bring forthwith-new horizon of ETPub.

Should you have further questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.
