ADVERBS

An adverb adds information to the meaning of a verb.

Some adverbs of manner (how) add -ly to the adjective. We form many adverbs from an adjective + ly. For example politely, quickly, safely. But there are some special spelling rules.

- 1 We do not leave out e, e.g. nice nicely Exceptions are true truly, whole wholly.
- 2 Y ily after a consonant, e.g. easy easily, lucky luckily Also angrily, happily, heavily, etc.
- 3 le → ly, e.g. possible → possibly Also comfortably, probably, reasonably, sensibly, terribly, etc
- 4 Ic -> ically, e.g. dramatic -> dramatically Also automatically, scientifically, etc. (Exception: publicly)

<ul><li>long and near (adverbs) have a</li><li>long</li></ul>	◆ I waited for ages.
longer, longest can be used without restriction:  It took longer than I expected.  But long is used mainly in the negative or interrogative:  How long will it take to get there? ✓ It won't take long.  In the affirmative too/so + long or long + enough is possible. Alternatively a long time can be used:  I would take too long.  It would take a long time.  In conversation (for) a long time is often replaced by (for) ages:  I waited for ages.  It took us ages to get there.  nearer, nearest can be used without restriction:
nearer, nearest can be used without ❖ Don't come any nearer.	restriction:

But near in the positive form is usually qualified by very/quite/so/too or enough:	<ul> <li>They live quite near.</li> <li>Don't come too near.</li> <li>You're near enough.</li> </ul>
The preposition near with noun, pronoun or adverb is more generally useful	<ul> <li>Don't go near the edge.</li> <li>The ship sank near here.</li> </ul>	Don't come any nearer.
far and much also have a restricted use.
far, farther/farthest and further/fu	rthest	The course
1 further, furthest
These, like farther / farthest, can	❖ It isn't safe to go any further /
be used as adverbs of	farther in this fog.
place/distance:  But they can also be used in an abstract sense:
<ul> <li>But they can also be used in an abstract sense:</li> <li>❖ Mr A said that these toy pistols should not be on sale.</li> <li>❖ Mr B went further and said that no toy pistols should be sold.</li> <li>❖ Mr C went furthest of all and said that no guns of any kind should be sold.</li> </ul>
2 far: restrictions on use
far in the comparative and superlative can be used quite freely:	He travelled further than we expected.
far in the positive form is used chiefly in the negative and interrogative:	♦ How far can you see? ~ I can't see far.
In the affirmative a long way is	They sailed a long way.
more usual than far, and a long way away is more usual than far away:	He lives a long way away.
But very far away is possible,	They walked so far that
and so is so/quite/ too + far	They walked too far.
and far + enough:	We've gone far enough.
far can be used with an abstract	The new law doesn't go far enough.
meaning;	You've gone too far! (You've been too inculting f average or inculting for a second artists) insulting/ overbearing/ insolent etc.)

far, adverb of degree, is used with comparatives or with too / so + positive forms:

- She swims far better than I do.
- He drinks far too much.

O T E Hard and hardly are often confused.

Hardly means 'almost not'. Hard is an adverb form meaning 'using a lot of energy'.

- I can hardly hear you. (=almost not)
  - You've worked hard. ( = with a lot of effort)

gradable and ungradable adjectives and intensifiers

- Adjectives that describe age, size, beauty etc can be measured or graded, and are called gradable. We can use intensifiers very, extremely with them.
- This tree is extremely o/d.
- It's a very beautiful painting.
- This problem is extremely difficult.
- ❖ I feel very unhappy.

- B Ungradable or Nongradable adjectives are those adjectives with meanings which cannot be modified by adverbs.:
- the western side of the mountain
- electronic devices
- a nuclear reactor
- This painting is superb.
- This problem is impossible.

We cannot say

This painting is very superb.

degree adverbs: quite

- A With gradable adjectives (or adjective + noun) or adverbs, quite has a negative meaning: 'not very much' or 'less than expected'.
- The film was quite entertaining, but I didn't really enjoy it.
- It's quite a long way to walk.
- They did the work quite slowly.

- B With ungradable adjectives and adjectives with an 'extreme' meaning, quite means completely. It can be used in the same way before a verb or adverb.
  - I'm sorry, but you are quite wrong. (ungradable)
  - This puzzle is quite impossible! (extreme meaning)
  - I quite agree. (= I agree completely)
  - I can't quite make up my mind. (not completely)
- Quite can be used with + a / an + noun to show that something is unusual or interesting.

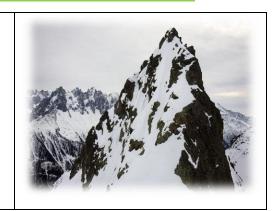

❖ That's quite a car!

- D Quite can be used with a superlative to mean 'very much'.
- That's quite the longest book I've ever read.

degree adverbs: rather

- A With gradable adjectives (or adjective + noun)
  rather has a stronger meaning than quite. It can be used in the same way
  before a verb or adverb.
- I think she's rather clever.
- This is rather a steep mountain.
- We all worked rather hard.
- I rather like your friend Anna.

В	Rather is common with negative adjectives.	<ul> <li>I thought the film was rather uninteresting.</li> <li>That was a rather stupid thing to do.</li> </ul>
С	Rather is also often used with comparatives.	This painting is rather more interesting.

degree adverbs: fairly

- With gradable adjectives (or adjective + noun) fairly usually has a similar meaning to 'quite'. Fairly is less strong than quite. It can be used the same way before an adverb.
- He's a fairly good pianist, I suppose. (= not very good)
- They worked fairly hard, but that wasn't really good enough.
- The report was fairly incomprehensible.

intensifiers

- B These are words that modify gradable adjectives and adverbs; they are used to make adjectives or adverbs stronger. very, extremely, really, terribly, particularly, awfully etc.
- ❖ This is really tasty!
- I thought the play was terribly boring.

especially, particularly, real/y are often used with verbs

- ❖ I really admire you.
- I particularly like this one.
- C Some intensifiers ten d to collocate with certain adjectives: absolutely ridiculous, completely useless, entirely unexpected, greatly admired, perfectly obvious etc.
- The announcement was not entirely unexpected.

There are no rules to explain which intensifiers go with which adjectives.

- D Some ungradable adjectives, usually with a negative meaning, can be modified by utterly, completely, totally.
- The food was completely awful!
- The house was totally destroyed in the explosion.
- We're so utterly different from each other

These adverbs can also be used with verbs.

- ❖ I completely agree with you.
- We utterly condemn what has happened.

comment and viewpoint adverbs

- A Comment adverbs show the attitude of the speaker, eg clearly, probably, luckily, surprisingly, foolishly.
- Sue naturally didn't agree.
- We obviously liked it.
- Alan kindly gave us a lift.
- Stupidly, I had left my wallet at home.

Other sentence adverbs indicate how we should understand what follows, eg general/y, apparently, supposedly.

- B Viewpoint adverbs tell us from what point of view the speaker is talking, eg politically, financially, technically.
- Environmentally, this was a disaster. ( = From an environmental point of view ...)
- Logically, this can't be correct.

Sometimes phrases are used for emphasis, eg political/y speaking, from a political point of view,. as far as politics is concerned
