Dear Editor,

I hope this email finds you well. I am writing to provide my feedback after reviewing the manuscript titled "Direct Extraction of Penicillin G and its Derivatives Applying a Stoichiometrically Imprinted Polymer from Aqueous Samples" for the Polytechnic Journal. I appreciate the opportunity to contribute to the peer-review process.

While I appreciate the efforts of the authors, the paper does not provide sufficient empirical evidence. It is scientifically weak; the results and interpretation are too preliminary. The data presented in the manuscript paper isn't enough to be published in the journal. Therefore, I recommend that this manuscript be rejected (kindly see the attached file).

Thank you for considering my feedback.

Best regards,
Sangar
